

The family goes a-riding. Mrs. E. W. C. Arnold and her three daughters, Mary, Joan and Patricia, starting out for a canter on their beautiful Long Island estate at Babylon.

Annual G. A. R. convention in Des Moines was attended by many survivors of the Boys in Blue who fought to preserve the Union in the civil war. Above are Dr. and Mrs. George T. Harding, father and mother of the President, leaving Chicago for the reunion. The doctor is wearing his G. A. R. uniform. On the left are four Pennsylvania veterans.

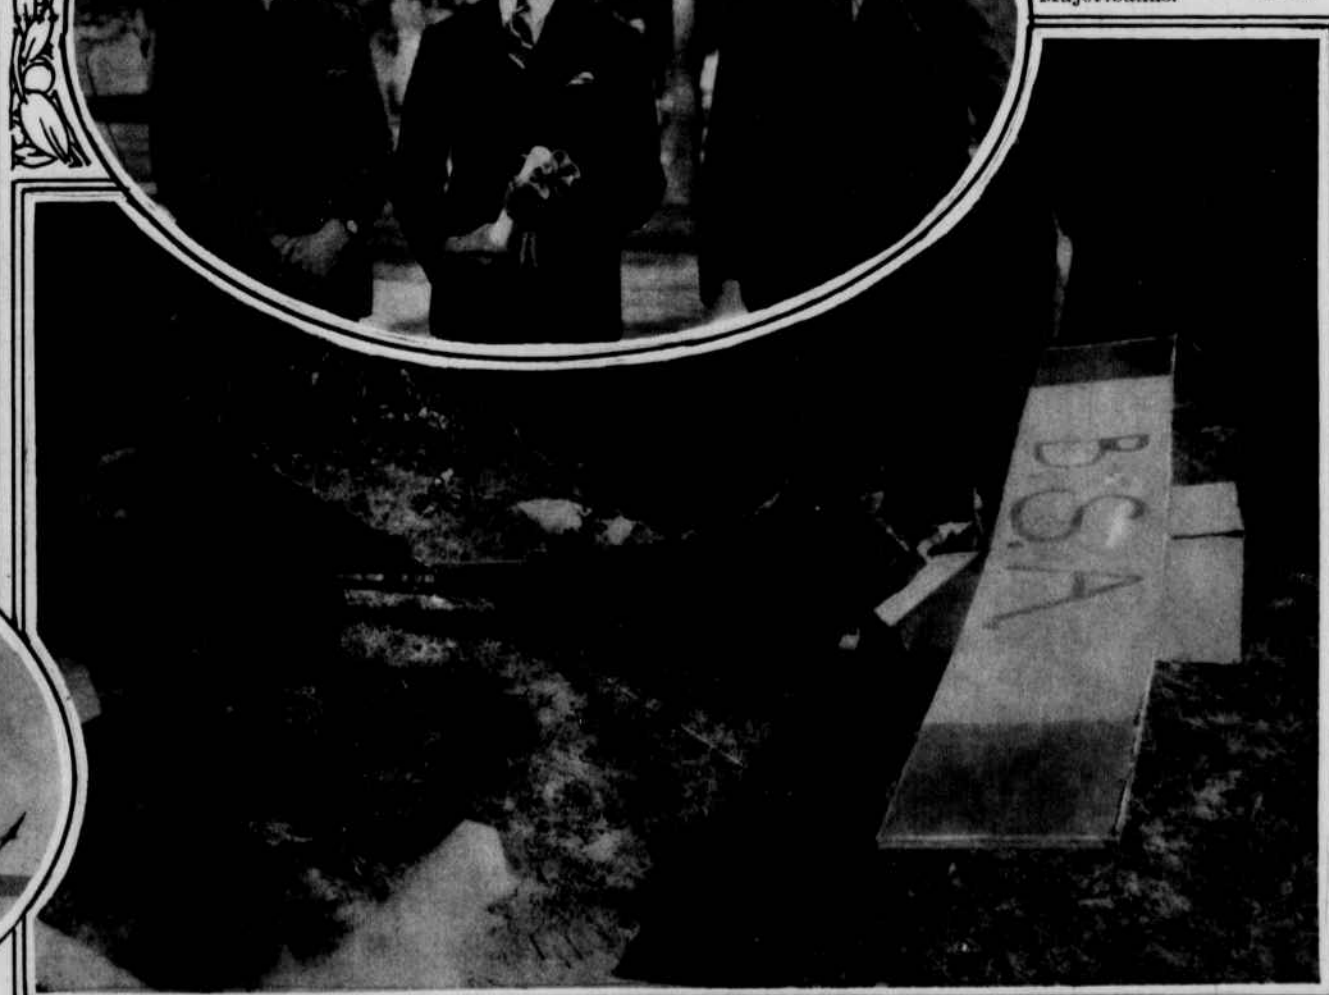

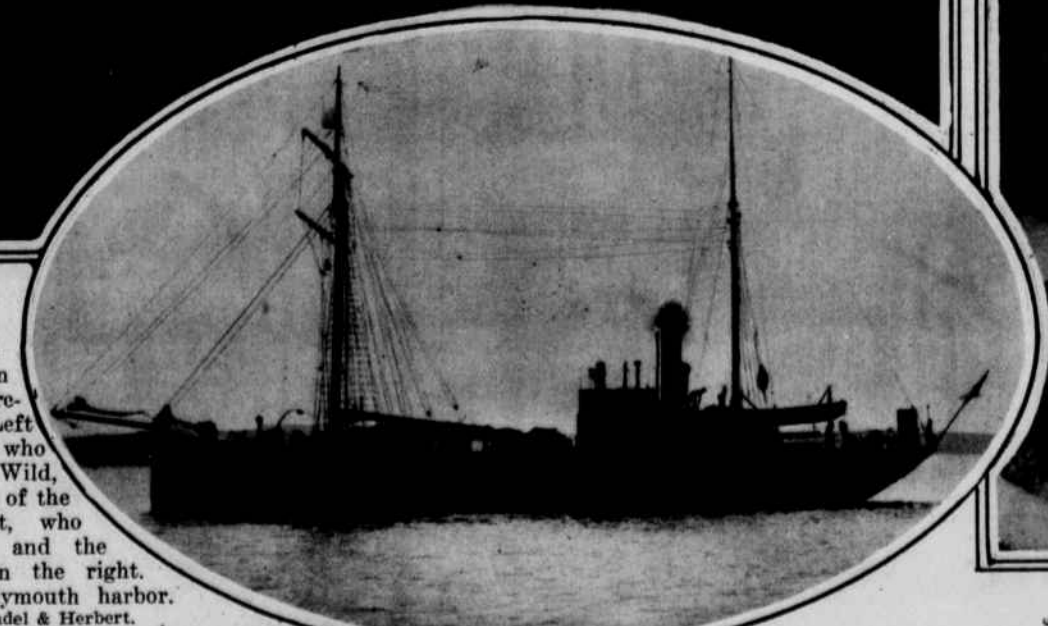

England's successor to ping pong—"volley shuttle"—a new game for the small garden or dining room, played with a shuttlecock instead of a ball. Underwood & Underwood.

At left—Oxford University's debating team here to argue against representatives of American universities. Left to Right—M. C. Hollis, Mir Mahmood and Edward Majoribanks. Kahill.

The Quest comes home. The Mayor of Plymouth greeting members of the Shackleton expedition on their return from the antarctic, where Sir Ernest died. Left to Right—Boy Scout Marr, who made the entire trip; Capt Wild, commander after the death of the leader; John G. Rowett, who financed the expedition, and the Mayor of Plymouth. On the right is the Quest entering Plymouth harbor. Kadel & Herbert.

Young Edwin Moors, Boy Scout of Troop I, at Roslyn, L. I., demonstrates the constructive ability necessary to become a good scout by building a fifteen foot monoplane glider. International.